Vermont Outdoor Connections Guide is the 2009 Northeast Outdoors Show Turkey Calling Champion

Bomoseen, Vermont – Will Smith of Vermont Outdoor Connections Guide Service wins the overall Senior Open Division at the National Wild Turkey Federation sanctioned turkey calling contest held at the Northeast Outdoors Show in Albany New York, March 21, 2009

Vermont Outdoor Connections vice president and brother of V.O.C. founder, Nick Smith, won the overall Senior Open Division at the NWTF sanctioned turkey calling contest held this past weekend at the Northeast Outdoors Show in Albany New York. Will Smith, battled experienced callers from around New England with many contestants more than double his age; for the coveted Senior Division Open Title. Will, just 18 years old, went toe to toe with several of the current best callers in New England to grasp the title with a total combined point score of 260. Second in the competition with a score of 258 was Quaker Boy Pro Staffer, Phil Salzarno. Third with a combined score of 256 was the Champion's brother and owner of Vermont Outdoor Connections, Nick Smith, a Knight & Hale Pro.

As a winner of a NWTF sanctioned calling contest, Will earned a spot to compete at the NWTF Nationals to be held next February, 2010 in Nashville Tennessee.

Will Smith only 18 and preparing to graduate high school this spring, has competed on the calling circuit since 2007. His accomplishments before included a championship win in the Vermont Amateur Division in 2008. A full-time guide while not in school, Will leads over a dozen clients each year to their longbeards. Will is scheduled to compete at the Kittery Trading Post calling championship on March 29, 2009.
